Rejoicings Over Baseball Victory.

There was jubilation and high carnival in Lebanon last Saturday when the far-famed Hospital team went down to defeat before the local boys. Seldom is the town stirred to such universal enthusiasm. The game was won by honest, straightforward baseball, after several contested decisions were all yielded to the Norwich team. These unfortunate wrangles on the part of the visitors were the only thing that marred the game. It was a hard fought struggle, now one team, now the other, being ahead, and was a toss up until the winning run-crossed the plate. Lebanon won it by playing the better game. A third game is to be arranged.
